MARBLEHEAD HARBOR.

MARBLEHEAD THEN AND NOW.

Some forty years ago we felt obliged to be in Boston every day during the summer, but thought it better to spend our nights at the seashore. Swampscott was then very fashionable, and Marblehead was unheard of as a summer resort.

We applied at a Swampscott boarding-house, and the proprietor thought that if we dined in Boston he could let us have a small room for twenty dollars a week. We could afford it, as we were then unmarried and getting about five thousand dollars a year out of our profession (lawyers charged smaller fees in those days); but as we were about to conclude our negotiation, the proprietor said to us (evidently with a feeling of pride), "We are going to have the —s with us this year," from which we at once understood that whatever we might pay, the —s would probably have most of the cream, and so thought before deciding we would take a train for Marblehead and explore that place. At Marblehead we inquired where the high school teacher boarded, and applied there. The good lady showed us a very comfortable corner room, for which she thought that she would have to charge us about four dollars a week for room and board. We inquired whether she had any other rooms, and probably thinking that we wanted a cheaper one, she showed us a very large and comfortable attic room, for which she thought she would have to charge us about three dollars and a half for room and board. The only other room she had to spare was the large chamber over her parlor, with an open fire place, lots of windows and a fine prospect. This room she intended for a gentleman and wife, and evidently thought it was not needed for a single gentleman, but we told her that perhaps we should get married some time and would really like to see that room. The result was that the good lady thought if we took that room she would have to charge us for board and room about five dollars a week. We engaged the room at once and told her that we would pay her six dollars, in consequence of which she did everything in her power all summer to make us happy.

At Swampscott we would have had to pay for a large sail boat for an afternoon sail five dollars.

At Marblehead we had about the best boat in the harbor, with a cabin that would seat about twenty people, to start at three o'clock every fine day and use as many hours as we wanted to, paying the skipper one dollar, the result of which was we engaged it for the summer, inviting parties to use it every fine day, whether we were there or not, and found the skipper so obliging that we raised his pay to a dollar and a half.

At that time the main street of Marblehead was thronged every night by hundreds of the good men and women of that town, and when a stranger came in what they did not all know about him in forty-eight hours was not worth knowing. If the comer labored under the impression that he was of a little higher grade than the people of Marblehead the sooner he left town the better it was for his personal comfort, but we were so kindly received by everybody there that we never passed a more pleasant summer in our whole life.

One incident of our Marblehead experiences we always remember with pleasure. We were getting out our row boat from one side of a little wharf when we heard screams from the other side of the wharf, and springing over the wharf with an oar, found that two ladies had in some way contrived to upset their boat and were struggling in water about ten feet deep. We immediately put down the handle of the oar to one of the ladies and requested her to hold on to it, and the other to hold on to her and keep quiet. In half a minute the one holding the oar gave another scream and dropped the oar and both went down under the water, but when they came to the surface again we concluded it was time to drop the moral suasion business and gave our orders in tones and language which brought immediate obedience. Then we called for help and soon a boat came and relieved them. We have always thought that if we had not happened to have been on the opposite side of the wharf just then, there would probably have been two Marblehead funerals.

Many years before this, when our good mother had a private school for young ladies in Salem, Mass., four miles from Marblehead, the dress of one of them took fire from an open fireplace, and our good mother saved her life, though she terribly burned her own arms in doing it.

In our senior college winter, at our school in southern Massachusetts, the light dress of one of our oldest young ladies took fire from an open stove door and all the others rushed screaming to their seats. By quick work we succeeded in throwing her to the floor, rolling her over and putting out the fire.

If we had space we could relate some other incidents which it gives us pleasure to remember.

"BAND OF MERCY DAY."

"Band of Mercy Day" in the public schools of Boston has been a splendid success, and here is what we find in the Boston papers:

WHAT THE BOSTON PAPERS SAY

"Band of Mercy Day" in the public schools of Boston is the first "Band of Mercy Day" ever established in the schools of any city, state, or country. The Bands have been organized in nearly all the public and parochial schools of the whole State of Massachusetts, and next year it is hoped to have a "Band of Mercy Day" adopted in the schools of the whole state.

"Bands of Mercy" have now been organized in every state and territory, and to some extent in various parts of the world, and number over sixty-five thousand, with a membership of over three millions.

The first American Band of Mercy was organized in the office of Mr. Geo. T. Angell, July 28, 1882, and among its first members were Governor Long, Archbishop Williams, Mayor Green, Chief-Justice Morton, Wendell Phillips, etc.

The first Band in the world was formed in London by Catharine Smithies, whom Mr. Angell met there, and who gave him the credit of its formation.

The object of the "Bands of Mercy" is not only the prevention of cruelty to animals, but the prevention of every form of cruelty and crime and the protection of property and life from incendiary fires, railroad wrecks, dynamite explosions.

The following letters were written for use in the Boston public schools for "Band of Mercy Day":

Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
Executive Department,
Boston, February 24, 1906.

My Dear Mr. Leach:

I am very glad indeed to hear of the increasing interest manifested by boys and girls who are seeking to make friends of the animals. It is a melancholy fact that most of our insect plagues which are doing so much to injure the crops of Massachusetts are not a little stimulated by the rifling of birds' nests for their eggs and the destruction of insect-destroying birds for the purpose of millinery. The investigations of the State Board of Agriculture show that almost every variety of American bird feeds upon the gypsy moth and the brown-tailed moth. Not only the robin, the blue-bird, the crow and the jay, but even the English sparrow is an enemy of these insect pests. The egg in the boy's collection may be pretty to look at, but the little bird-life thus taken deprives Massachusetts of just one more winged crusader against our insect enemies. Save the birds and you save the crops and the trees.

It is pleasing to notice that though the grown-ups still persist in the cruel torture of horses by docking their tails, that children's ponies are allowed the privilege of whisking away the buzzing flies as nature intended. The United States Army sees to it that the army horses shall not be driven wild with discomfort by being deprived of their tails. I certainly hope that children will continue to preserve the ponies' tails and point a moral to the thoughtless grown-ups who have so little consideration for man's good friend—the horse.

With every good wish for your splendid work, believe me,

Cordially yours,

CURTIS GUILD, Jr.

Mr. A. J. Leach,
Care of S. P. C. A., Boston, Mass.

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1906.

To the Boys and Girls of the Public Schools of Boston:

Mr. Adoniram J. Leach, lecturer and organizer of the American Humane Education Society, has made the request that he be permitted to discuss with the pupils of the Boston schools the purpose, aim and object of the American Humane Education Society.

I believe that the pupils of the Boston school should actively interest themselves in the work of the Society which Mr. Leach represents, and attentive consideration should be given to the advice and suggestions of the American Humane Education Society.

This Society is engaged in a cause which contributes much in the building up of character. Every pupil should encourage the kindly treatment of dumb animals, and by co-operating with the American Humane Education Society, material results can be achieved.

Truly yours,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Superintendent's Office,

Mason Street,

March 31, 1906.

To the Principals and Teachers
of the Boston Public Schools:

The great function of the public schools is to establish character. One of the essential elements of character is a sympathetic attitude towards the rights, privileges and feelings of others. When a child has learned to sympathize with the feelings of animals, and has thereby established the habit of respecting their rights, he has made a long step toward the recognition of the rights of his fellow-beings and has made a substantial gain in his education.

Any effort looking towards an increased appreciation of the birds and animals around us is a legitimate part of public school work.

Yours sincerely,

STRATTON D. BROOKS,
Superintendent of Public Schools.

Letter of former acting Superintendent of Boston Public Schools:

BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Superintendent's Office,

Mason Street, March 9, 1906.

To the Boys and Girls of Boston:

It affords me much pleasure to extend to the boys and girls of our city my hearty congratulations on the celebration of "Humanity Day" or "Band of Mercy Day" in the schools. Next to our love for father and mother, brother and sister, and all human kind, should be our interest in and kindness to animals.

I would remind you of the many valuable lessons of trust and constancy which we are taught by the faithful service of our domestic animals. My Scotch collie always greets me with a smile, so to speak, which he emphasizes by the wagging of his tail. He always seems hopeful and never cast down, always ready to do my bidding; always guarding my front door in all winds and weather, shielding better and more securely than bolt or lock our home from intruders.

As the spring time comes on, what would our life in the city and country be without the song and sight of bird on bush and tree? If we are to preserve these blessings all about us, how careful and kindly should we be to all life of every kind.

Yours with trust and confidence,

WALTER S. PARKER,
Acting Supt. of Public Schools.

To the Teachers of the Boston Public Schools:

Please kindly say from me to your Bands of Mercy that they belong to a great army of Bands of Mercy, numbering probably more than two millions members, an army so large that if it was marching in single file the line would reach not only a thousand miles, from Boston to Chicago, but probably some hundreds of miles farther, and that this great army is marching under banners on which are inscribed, "Glory to God, Peace on Earth, Kindness, Justice and Mercy to Every Living Creature" (both human and dumb.)

LETTER TO SUPERINTENDENT OF CHICAGO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

May 15, 1906.

Superintendent of Public Schools,
Chicago, Ill.

My Dear Sir:—Mr. A. R. Rogers, one of the vice-presidents of our American Humane Education Society, is coming to Chicago to endeavor, at his own expense, to aid in organizing Bands of Mercy in your city, as he has been organizing them recently in ten of our largest western cities.

Great interest has been taken in the subject in our Boston schools which, with the unanimous, enthusiastic assistance of all their masters, have recently established a Band of Mercy Day. The movement has been thoroughly endorsed by our governor, our mayor, and school superintendent.

I hope you will be able to furnish Mr. Rogers all the assistance in your power to enable him to accomplish what seems to me a most desirable result, not only for the protection of animals from cruelty, but for the protection of property and life against incendiary fires, railroad wrecks, dynamite explosions, and all forms of crime.

With kindest wishes, I am,

Yours sincerely,

GEO. T. ANGELL.

THIS BAND OF MERCY BUSINESS.

We think the time is rapidly approaching when good men and women all over our country will begin to realize that this Band of Mercy business is going to be a great power in the land. Started in our offices July 28, 1882, we have now on our list over sixty-five thousand branches, with a membership of between two and three millions, and as every increase in the power of the telescope brings out new worlds in the heavens above us, so does every increase of our Bands of Mercy bring new thoughts of their still greater possibilities. In the beginning nearly all who joined the Bands thought only of their influence for the prevention of suffering to the lower animals, but to our mind their infinitely greater power is to be in their influence on human beings, the prevention of wars, incendiary fires, railroad wrecks, dynamite explosions, every form of violence and crime, and in making the rich kinder to the poor and the poor kinder to the rich, the prevention of poverty, the relief of the sick and suffering.

We have just had the first "Band of Mercy Day" in the world in the schools of Boston, endorsed by our governor, our mayor, our school superintendent and the masters of all our public schools. This is the beginning of "Band of Mercy Days" all over our country. We think that we are as yet only in the infancy of this great work, which is to extend one way to our kindergarten schools and another to our theological seminaries, colleges and universities. Why not?

Among the first members of our Parent Band in 1882 were our governor, our mayor, our chief justice, our most reverend archbishop, and others of the most prominent citizens of our state. Why not, then, the students of all our higher educational institutions of learning and their professors and teachers?

Why not include as members our clergy, our doctors, our magistrates and lawyers?

Why not have Catholic Bands and Protestant Bands of every denomination? Or still better, Christian Bands which shall include the whole of them?

Why not have as members all the good men and women in our country, no matter how great may be their theological differences so long as they believe in our mottoes, which are, "Glory to God, Peace on Earth, Kindness, Justice and Mercy to Every Living Creature," both human and dumb?

It is not impossible that the time may come when the historian will write that the grandest work of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries was the formation and growth of the Bands of Mercy.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

"WAR IS HELL."

"War is hell" was what General Sherman said, and no man in America knew better about it than he.

Hundreds of thousands of our school boys are taught to march through the streets in our various cities and towns with guns, and all the daily papers of the country praise them.

Nevertheless, as General Sherman said, "War is hell"—not only to human beings but also to dumb creatures, tens of thousands of which have been left on battle-fields mangled by shot and shell, or in the wilderness to die of starvation.

Every boy should be taught that "war is hell."

Every teacher in America ought to be required by law to teach every boy and girl in America that "war is hell" and why it is hell. And when our Christian churches do their duty and our "Bands of Mercy" and "Humane Education" get in their perfect work every boy and girl will be.

International difficulties can be settled in international courts just as other difficulties are now settled in other courts, and in place of great armies of war and battleships, we want great armies of mercy, on whose banners will be inscribed "Glory to God"—"Peace on earth"—"Kindness, Justice and Mercy to every living creature," (both human and dumb.)

GEO. T. ANGELL.

A BAND OF MERCY DINNER.

On Wednesday, May 16, our good friend Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, formerly United States Senator from Michigan, Minister to Spain, and President of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago and now President of the Michigan Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, gave a dinner to various persons of Detroit who have been interested in forming Bands of Mercy in that city.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

On May 18th a gentleman writes us from Chicago: "In the many cities I have visited it has been a pleasure to me to hear the universal expression from editors of leading papers, that Our Dumb Animals is most widely known and respected. I think no paper in the United States is better known than yours."

[Well, it ought to be, as it goes every month to every newspaper in America north of Mexico.]

THE INTELLIGENCE OF THE FAMOUS HORSE, JIM KEY, ESTABLISHED BEYOND ALL FUTURE QUESTION.

The following letter from the Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, former United States Senator of Michigan, Minister to Spain, and President of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, and now President of the Michigan Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to Mr. James Barnett, President of the Cleveland Humane Society, establishes to our mind the intelligence of the horse, Jim Key, beyond all future question:

Detroit, Mich., May 1, 1906.

Mr. James Barnett,
President Humane Society,
315 City Hall, Cleveland, Ohio.

My Dear Sir:—Your kind note of the 28th ult. received and contents noted. As much as I should like to make a visit to your city in connection with Jim Key exhibition, my health will not permit me to be away from home at night when it can possibly be avoided.

You will not be disappointed in Jim Key. At our exhibitions here those who came to scoff were nonplussed, and those who were not converted to the belief that horses are equal to logical processes are still trying to get a solution of his wonderful powers. I am thoroughly convinced that he reasons and arrives at conclusions by logical process. He was at my place on the outskirts of Detroit for a week and the atmosphere of his surroundings was entirely free from deception or effort to mislead. I went out to the stable one morning and asked his attendants to step back out of his sight. I then asked Jim Key to do a sum in arithmetic. He said he would do it. I then asked him how much five times six less four was, and quicker than an ordinary child of twelve or fourteen years could do it he hunted out the figures twenty-six. No one knew what I was going to ask, nor I, myself, thirty seconds before I propounded the sum. If this was not done by logical process, how was it done? I am thoroughly convinced that the horse reasons. I then asked him to spell

From "Friends and Helpers," compiled by Miss Sarah J. Eddy.

For Band of Mercy literature write M. L. Hall, 126 Ridge Street, Providence, R. I., sending her stamp for list and samples.

the name of a friend whom he had never heard of. He did that.

Jim Key is doing a great work not only for the children, but for all those who are not too old to learn.

With kind regards I have the honor to be,
Yours very truly,

T. W. PALMER.

JIM KEY BANDS OF MERCY.

Mr. Albert R. Rogers, a business man of New York City, and the owner of the wonderful educated horse, Jim Key, which he has had exhibited in nearly all of the large cities of our country with great success to immense audiences, has just completed a three months' tour with his educated horse. These exhibitions have been given under the auspices of the American Humane Education Society and the various local humane societies in the cities visited this spring, which include Cincinnati, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Joseph, Omaha, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Detroit and Cleveland. In all of these cities the schools have been closed by the Boards of Education, and the children sent to see this marvelous educated horse, as an object-lesson showing what patience and kindness will do with animals. In all of these cities the largest auditoriums have been engaged, seating from five to ten thousand people, and though giving five performances a day, in most cases for an entire week, they have been none too large to hold the crowds that have come. In all of the above cities, Mr. Rogers has had organized, as a result of these exhibitions, Jim Key Bands of Mercy. He has been so successful, through his efforts, with the assistance of his head organizer, Miss Agnetta C. Floris, that in every school-room in all of these cities, both public and parochial, Bands of Mercy have been organized, and the children are very enthusiastic. The interest that has been created in humane work in these cities is very great. Mr. Rogers gives to the local humane societies one half of the profits derived from the exhibitions and the other half remains for humane education work. The amounts derived have been large and gratifying to all. All of these Jim Key Bands of Mercy are entered on our lists, as all others are, by numbers and names. Mr. Rogers has a plan to vastly increase the number of these Bands of Mercy, and not only to have them formed, but also to keep them alive and active. All members of these Bands of Mercy, which now number several hundred thousand children, know him as Uncle Bert, and he receives numerous letters from children asking all sorts of questions and telling what they have done in the way of being kind to animals and protecting them. Mr. Rogers is one of the vice-presidents of our American Humane Education Society. He is now making his plans for the fall exhibitions of Jim Key, and any humane society that would like to have Jim Key come can write Mr. Rogers at 75 Maiden Lane, New York, N. Y.

LETTER TO ST. PAUL "BANDS OF MERCY."

Editor of "St. Paul Dispatch."

My Dear Sir:—Mr. Albert R. Rogers requests me to write a few lines to the children of St. Paul who have recently joined our "Bands of Mercy," and it gives me great pleasure to do so.

I would like to say to them that they have joined a great army which marches under banners on which are inscribed, "Glory to God, Peace on Earth, Kindness, Justice and Mercy to Every Living Creature." It is an army so large that if it were marching in single file it would reach all the way from Boston to St. Paul, and I think farther. It is an army enlisted, not only for the protection of God's lower creatures, but for the protection of property and life, and to insure the continuance of our free republic, in which every man is a monarch, every woman a queen, and every child of even the poorest parents has a chance to reach the highest honors in the gift of the nation.

Please present to all who read your paper my kindest wishes that they all may stand, through life, as valiant soldiers in this great army of mercy. GEO. T. ANGELL.

DAVID WAS A VERY LITTLE FELLOW WHEN COMPARED WITH GOLIATH.

Many years ago Commodore Marston, in command of our navy at Fortress Monroe during our civil war, told us the thrilling story how the great ironclad "Merrimac," sailing out of Norfolk, Virginia, harbor, sank our frigate, the "Cumberland," with all on board—and how he ordered all other vessels to put to sea the next morning—how Fortress Monroe and the Norfolk navy-yard, and Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia, and quite possibly the fortunes of the whole war, were at the mercy of that ironclad vessel, and how in the darkness of the anxious night that followed the sinking of the "Cumberland" a light was seen out at sea coming nearer and nearer, until at last the little "Monitor," first of its kind, (built only as an experiment, and not to be accepted by the government unless it proved a success), came in.

As the old commodore related how that little "Monitor" won the battle and perhaps saved the unity of our nation, it did not seem a great stretch of faith to believe that the invisible power which controls the destinies of nations sent it just at the right time to turn the scale in favor of the Union.

David was a very little fellow when compared with Goliath, and our little monthly Our Dumb Animals, with its protests and arguments against war and every form of cruelty, makes small show beside the great dailies of some of our large cities, but going as it does every month to every newspaper in America north of Mexico, it has already caused the establishment in our own and foreign lands of more than sixty-five thousand "Bands of Mercy," and the circulation in our own and foreign languages of more than three millions copies of "Black Beauty," and it may be that, under the same Divine guidance, it is destined to prove a far more important instrumentality for the good of our nation and the world than some of its readers imagine.

Like the little "Monitor," Our Dumb Animals was the first of its kind in the world, and so we might add that the American Humane Education Society was the first of its kind in the world, and the American "Band of Mercy" was the first of its kind in the world, although Mrs. Smithies had previously formed in England a Band differing from ours, but which, as she kindly wrote us after forming it, was the result of our work in England, and so we might go on, if we choose, claiming for Massachusetts the first "Band of Mercy Day" of any city in the world, the first law in the world to prevent the shooting of live pigeons from traps for sport, the first law against vivisections in the schools, and the first action in many other directions too numerous to mention.

When Miss Georgiana Kendall of New York sent us, without comment, a copy of "Black Beauty," which was bought from its writer by an English publisher for the sum of twenty pounds and had a small circulation in England, we called at once on our good friend, Mr. Houghton, head of the great publishing house of Houghton, Mifflin Co.; and told him we wanted ten thousand copies. He said that he had seen it years before and thought it would not pay to print it. When we sent one of the first copies to the New York firm which supplied our railroads and depots with publications the answer came back that it never could be sold. We have now carried its circulation up to over three millions copies, and apparently that is only the beginning of a still greater circulation in years to come.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

THE WORK OF EDITING "OUR DUMB ANIMALS."

Good old Professor Sanborn, loved by all Dartmouth college students during our college years, once said to us, "Mr. Angell, I think you ought to be an editor." We never forgot what he said, and it was always our ambition to have the control of some paper, through which we could talk to a hundred thousand or a million of our fellow-citizens. But we thought we would first take a post-graduate course in the practice of law, which would enable us to accumulate the means of making ourself an independent editor who could speak without fear or favor to high and low, rich and poor.

Our assistant frequently thinks that we devote to our paper more work than in our eighty-third year we can afford, but we always remember that we are addressing probably the most important audience in the world, all our clergy, lawyers, doctors, school superintendents, and a multitude of others in our own state; all members of congress, presidents of colleges and universities, and the editors of some twenty thousand publications, including every newspaper and magazine in North America north of Mexico, and many others too numerous to mention, all of whom receive Our Dumb Animals every month. It is with a consciousness of the importance of this audience that we work and write.

An old Dutchman in Albany, offering some butter for sale, was asked by the purchaser whether it was clean? and was answered that it ought to be for it took him and the old lady nearly all night to pick the hairs out. It takes us a good deal of thought and work both day and night to produce each month our little paper which so many thousands of our readers are glad to read.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

President Roosevelt will be delighted to learn that in answer to an inquiry of our chambermaid this morning we found that she had fourteen brothers and sisters—several of them in Boston, but most of them in her native county, Kilkenny, Ireland. No race suicide there. GEO. T. ANGELL.

SUCH IS FAME.

Many years ago we were taking evidence as magistrate at a hearing in a store at South Market Street, where some dozen of our prosperous merchants were present, when our office boy came in to say that our cousin, Ryland Fletcher—then lieutenant-governor of Vermont (and subsequently governor) was at our office and anxious to see us. This brought up the question, Who is the lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts? And there wasn't a man in the room who could tell. Then some one inquired, "Who's governor?" And there was a pause of nearly a minute before another answered that he believed it was a fellow by the name of Gardiner.

Such is fame! GEO. T. ANGELL.

THE PROMISED LAND.

So we sailed and sailed over stormy seas, till we came to a pleasant land,
Where forever were peace and happiness, and plenty was on each hand;
And no man wronged his brother there, for no man counted it gain
To live by the sweat of another's brow, or to joy at another's pain.

And the strong man there was a kindly man, and aided the one who was weak,
And for those who were simple and trusting men their wiser brother's would speak;
And creed, or color, or land, or birth, caused no man to hate another,
For the same red blood filled each man's veins, and every man was a brother.

And the old man there was a blessed man, for toilsome he wanted nought,
And vice and toil on the little ones no longer their ruin wrought;
And the feeble in body and mind had there no longer a care for bread;
For out of the plenty that was for all, 'twas theirs the first to be fed.

And oh! but that land was a happy land for those who were sisters of men,
For them was no rude and unseemly toil, in field or in sweater's den;
They pawned not body and soul for bread, for woman felt woman's shame,
And dearer than life to the strong man was the good of his sister's name.

And the fields were yellow with harvesting where every man might reap,
And the fishy rivers went singing down through that land to the mighty deep,
And the mountains were clothed with forests, and the orchards were ripe with fruit,
And the breath of the kine like incense arose in the meadows still green about.

And peace was forever in that fair land, for no man envied his mate,
And no man's treasures, where all were rich, woke his brother's sleeping hate,
And the kingdom that Christ had promised was now for all men to see,
And the name of that happy kingdom was, "The land of the soon to be."

From "In the Promised Land, and other Poems," by Michael Lynch.

GOD GIVE US MEN!

God give us men. A time like this demands
Strong minds, great heads, true faith, and ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office cannot kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie.

By J. G. HOLLAND.

YOU CAN NEVER TELL.

You can never tell when you do an act
Just what the result will be;
But with every deed you are sowing a seed,
Tho' its harvest you may not see.
Each kindly act is an acorn dropped
In God's productive soil;
Tho' you may not know, yet the tree will grow
And shelter the brows that toil.

Office of Parent American Band of Mercy.

GEO. T. ANGELL, President; JOSEPH L. STEVENS, Secretary.

A. JUDSON LEACH, State Organizer.

Over sixty-five thousand branches of the Parent American Band of Mercy have been formed, with probably over two million members.

PLEDGE.

"I will try to be kind to all harmless living creatures, and try to protect them from cruel usage."

Any Band of Mercy member who wishes can cross out the word harmless from his or her pledge. M. S. P. C. A. on our badges means "Merciful Society Prevention of Cruelty to All."

We send without cost, to every person asking, a copy of "Band of Mercy Information" and other publications.

Also without cost, to every person who forms a "Band of Mercy," obtaining the signatures of thirty adults or children or both to the pledge, and sends us the name chosen for the "band" and the name and post-office address [town and state] of the president who has been duly elected:

1. Our monthly paper, "OUR DUMB ANIMALS," full of interesting stories and pictures, for one year.

2. Mr. Angell's Address to the High, Latin, Normal and Grammar Schools of Boston.

3. Copy of Band of Mercy Songs.

4. Twelve Lessons on Kindness to Animals, containing many anecdotes.

5. Eight Humane Leaflets, containing pictures and one hundred selected stories and poems.

6. For the President, an imitation gold badge.

The head officers of Juvenile Temperance Associations and teachers and Sunday-school teachers, should be presidents of Bands of Mercy.

Nothing is required to be a member but to sign the pledge, or authorize it to be signed.

Any intelligent boy or girl fourteen years old can form a Band with no cost, and receive what we offer, as before stated.

The prices for badges, gold or silver imitation, are eight cents large, five cents small; ribbon, gold stamped, eight cents, ink printed, four cents; song and hymn books, with fifty-two songs and hymns, two cents; cards of membership, two cents; and membership book, eight cents. The "Twelve Lessons on Kindness to Animals" cost only two cents for the whole, bound together in one pamphlet. The Humane Leaflets cost twenty-five cents a hundred, or eight for five cents.

Everybody, old and young, who wants to do a kind act, to make the world happier and better, is invited to address, by letter or postal, GEO. T. ANGELL, Esq., President, 19 Milk Street, Boston, Mass., and receive full information.

Good Order of Exercises for Band of Mercy Meetings.

1.—Sing Band of Mercy song or hymn, and repeat the Pledge together. [See Melodies.]

2.—Remarks by President, and reading of Report of last meeting by Secretary.

3.—Readings. "Angell Prize Contest Recitations," "Memory Gems," and anecdotes of good and noble sayings and deeds done to both human and dumb creatures, with vocal and instrumental music.

Boston Drivers and Teamsters Wearing Our Humane Silver Medals.

LETTER TO THE GENERAL PRESIDENT OF INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF TEAMSTERS.

May 15, 1906.

Mr. CORNELIUS P. SHEA,
General President of the International
Brotherhood of Teamsters,
Indianapolis, Indiana.

My dear Mr. Shea:—Your kind favor of May 11, offering to give me a page every month of your excellent official magazine of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, through which I can reach all the branches of your great international organization, received with kindest thanks.

In consideration of the vast humane influence which you are kindly giving, I have ordered one of our humane silver medals, properly inscribed, to be sent you, and would suggest that the enclosed articles may, perhaps, be deemed suitable for your first issue.

I believe that most of the cruelty which is inflicted upon horses results from want of thought, and that the conversion of persons inclined to be cruel is a thousand times more important than convictions in the courts.

Our aim is to endeavor to convince every driver of horses in America that every kind act he may do for his horses, and every kind word he may say to them, will not only make his horses happier, but also himself.

Any driver who has never tried it does not know how much better he may be made to feel by giving his horses a lump of sugar, a crust of bread, or a handful of fresh grass in summer. I carry constantly in my pocket several lumps of sugar, and when I pass a horse which seems to look rather unhappy I make both the horse and myself happier with a little gift.

I think, with very rare exceptions, we have the entire good will of more than seven thousand Boston drivers connected with their twenty-three associations. Anything which you can do to awaken the attention of the branches of all your great brotherhood to this important matter will, I am sure, make your own life happier.

I shall be glad to send you a thousand or more copies of the May issue of "Our Dumb Animals" if you have any way of distributing them to American drivers.

With kindest wishes, I am,

Yours sincerely,

GEO. T. ANGELL.

THE HORSE.

[From the "Recreations of a Country Parson."]

It is highly improbable that any reader of ordinary power of imagination would guess the particular surface on which the paper is spread whereon I am at the present moment writing. Such is the reflection which flows naturally from my pencil's point as it begins to darken this page. I am seated on a manger in a very light and snug stable, and my paper is spread upon a horse's face, occupying the flat part between the eyes. You would not think, unless you tried, what an extensive surface may there be found. If you put a thin book next the horse's skin you will write with the greater facility; and you will find, as you sit upon the edge of the manger, that the animal's head occupies a position which, as regards height and slope, is sufficiently convenient. His mouth, it may be remarked, is not far from your knees, so that it would be highly inexpedient to attempt the operation with any horse of whose temper you are not assured. But you, my good Old Boy (for such is the quadruped's name), you would not bite your master. Too many carrots have you received from his hand; too many pieces of bread have you licked up from his extended palm. A thought has struck me which I wish to preserve in writing, though indeed at this rate it will be a long time before I work my way to it. I am waiting here for five minutes till my man-servant shall return with something for which he has been sent, and wherefore should even five minutes be wasted? Life is not very long, and the minutes in which one can write with ease are not very many. And perhaps the newness of such a place of writing may communicate something of freshness to what is traced by a somewhat jaded hand. You winced a little, Old Boy, as I disposed my book and this scrap of an old letter on your face, but now you stand perfectly still. On either side of this page I see a large eye looking down wistfully; above the page, a pair of ears are cocked in quiet curiosity, but with no indication of fear. Not that you are deficient in spirit, my dumb friend; you will do your twelve miles an hour with any steed within some miles of you; but a long course of kindness has gentled you as well as Mr. Rarey could have done, though no more than seven summers have passed over your head. Let us ever, kindly reader, look with especial sympathy and regard at any inferior animal on which the doom of man has fallen, and which must eat its food, if not in the sweat of its brow, then in that of its sides. Curious that a creature should be called all through life to labor, for which yet there remains no rest. As for us human beings, we can understand and we can bear with much evil and many trials and sorrows here, because we are taught that all these form the discipline which shall prepare us for another world, a world that shall set this right. But for you, my poor fellow-creature, I think with sorrow as I write here upon your head, there remains no such immortality as remains for me. What a difference between us. You to your sixteen or eighteen years here, and then to oblivion. I to my threescore and ten, and then eternity. Yes, the difference is immense; and it touches me to think of your life and mine, of your doom and mine. I know a house where, at morning and evening prayer, when the household assemblies, among the servants there always walks in a certain shaggy little dog, who listens with the deepest attention and the most solemn gravity to all that is said, and then, when prayers are over, goes out again with his friends. I cannot witness that silent procedure without being much moved by the sight. Ah, my fellow-creature, this is something in which you have no part. Made by the same hand, breathing the same air, sustained like us by food and drink, you are witnessing an act of ours which relates to interests that do not concern you, and of which you have no idea. And so, here we are, you standing at the manger, Old Boy, and I sitting upon it; the mortal and the immortal, close together; your nose on my knee, my paper on your head; yet with something between us broader than the broad Atlantic. As for you, if you suffer here, there is no other life to make up for it. Yet it would be well if many of those who are your betters in the scale of creation fulfilled their Creator's purposes as well as you. He gave you strength and swiftness, and you use these to many a valuable end; not many of the superior race will venture to say that they turn the powers God gave them to account as worthy of their nature. If it come to the question of deserving, you deserve better than I. Forgive me, my fellow-creature, if I have sometimes given you an angry flick when you shied a little at a pig or a donkey. But I know you bear me no malice; you forget the flicks (they are not many), and you think rather of the bread and the carrots, of the times I have pulled your ears, and smoothed your neck, and patted your nose. And forasmuch as this is all your life, I shall do my best to make it a comfortable one. Happiness, of course, is something which you can never know. Yet, my friend and companion, you shall have a deep-littered stall, and store of corn and hay so long as I can give them; and may this hand never write another line if it ever does you wilful injury.

(A good many people think there is some future life for horses as well as men, and we certainly hope there may be.)

GEO. T. ANGELL.

FROM ANNA MALANN.
(Harper's Bazar.)

A mist clouded her soft brown eyes as they met mine for an instant and then turned quickly away. "It's dreadful," she said, in a low, hushed tone—"dreadful." "It's wicked, I know, to say so, but—I couldn't be happy up there and them outside. Me and all the real folks, that's had everything in this world—rights, and laws to protect their rights, and—and—souls—us all inside heaven, and them that's been put upon and worried and tortured all their days, them outside of it all, oh, I couldn't stand it—I know I couldn't! So—well—maybe I sha'n't be there myself." She went on hurriedly, as if in response to some expression she thought my face might wear: "Not that I'm giving up my religion. That's a sight of comfort to me—mor'n anything else, I guess. But, you see, folks generally are so busy saving their own souls and other people's—heathens and all—they can't attend to righting the awful wrongs done to creatures, and it's nat'ral, I know. But I've got a leaning that way, and I'm so made I seem to know how to help animals and coax folks to be good to them. So I just tell God right out all about it—that I feel I must give up my whole life, day in and day out, to helping and comforting these creatures He's made, and made so like folks in everything but just not having souls. And I tell Him—she spoke softly and reverently—I tell Him I love Him and want to serve Him, and I'm on His side, and will be to my dying day. But I've got such a terrible aching and burning over the things done to these creatures that I can't attend to the other things folks tell me is the highest, most important ones. I haven't got time for all the meetings—the sewing society and missionary concerts and temperance meetings and teachers' meetings and the anti-smoking society, and all those stated means, as they call them. I'm drove day and night, looking up suffering creatures, fetching home them that's lost, nursing the sick, chirking up the lonesome and homesick. Why, you wouldn't believe how full my hands be. And so I tell Him plain, but humble and respectful, that if He thinks best to say, because I gin up the work and duty of a professor, I must give up the rewards too, why, I've nothing to say. He knows best, understanding the whole case, and I know He'll do right. So I just go on with what I've got to do for these poor things as if I was just one of them, soul-lacking and all. And they think I am."

TO ALL CLERGYMEN IN THE UNITED STATES AND ELSEWHERE.

In the Sunday-school of a large church in Baltimore they have decided to secure a large number of subscriptions for Our Dumb Animals. The solicitor's commission, namely, twenty-five cents on each copy, to be given to aid in church work.

If in every Sunday-school of the United States the same plan should be adopted it would raise the circulation of Our Dumb Animals to millions, and at the same time raise in every Sunday-school a considerable amount of money to be used for church work or any other work that the Sunday-school may choose to give it to.

A MOUNTAIN HERMIT AND HIS FRIENDS—A TRUE STORY.

The following interesting story, with a deep touch of pathos in it, I obtained in a beautiful town of Utah, which I know well:

"Provo Canyon" is one of those grandly picturesque mountain ravines which abound in Utah. In the solitude and sublimity of this canyon a mountaineer named W. W. Ferguson lived a hermit's life. In the winter months his log-cabin was, in consequence of the deep snow, shut entirely out from intercourse with human beings. But he was not companionless, this mountain man—for he made friends with the wild animals and birds. He was their friend and they grew fond of him. They learned to recognize his voice, and not to be afraid at his approach. They would eat food from his hands, the pigeons and magpies flying from afar when he called them—the little squirrels playing about him like tame kittens.

A year ago a New York gentleman, on a pleasure trip, called at Mr. Ferguson's cabin, and seeing the mountaineer with his bird and animal friends on such good terms, said:

"My friend, you have some power—some charm which these creatures obey. If you will tell me the secret I will give you a hundred dollars."

The hermit, smiling, assured the traveler that the only secret was the kindness with which he always treated them. "They have learned," he said, "that I am their friend, and I have never betrayed their friendship."

The traveler went his way to meditate on what he had seen and heard.

THE BEAUTY OF THE MORNING.

Oh, the beauty of the morning! It showers its splendors down

From the crimson robes of sunrise, the azure mountain's crown;

It smiles amid the waving fields, it dapples in the streams, It breathes its sparkling music through the rapture of our dreams.

It floats upon the limpid air in rainbow-clouds of mist, It ripples through the glowing skies in pearl and amethyst, It gleams in every burnished pool, it riots through the grass,

It splashes waves of glory on the shadows as they pass.

It steals among the nodding trees and to the forest croons, In airy note and gentle voice, 'neath waning penilunes; It calls, and lo! the wooded brakes, the hills and tangled fens—

A world of life and mystery—swarm with its denizens.

It trembles in the perfumed breeze, and where its ardor runs,

A thousand light-winged choristers pant forth their orisons;

A thousand echoes clap their hands, and from their dewy beds,

A million scarlet-throated flowers peer forth with startled heads.

Oh, the beauty of the morning! It rains upon our ears: The music of the universe, the chiming of the spheres; From cloistered wood and leafy vale, its tuneful medleys throng,

Till all the earth is drenched in light, and all the world in song!

VICTOR HUGO

Said: "A day will come when the only battlefield will be the market open to commerce, and the mind opening to new ideas. A day will come when bullets and bomb-shells will be replaced by votes, by the universal suffrage of nations by arbitration of a sovereign senate, which will be to Europe what the Parliament is to England, the Diet to Germany, the Legislative Assembly to France. A day will come when a cannon-ball will be exhibited in public museums just as an instrument of torture is now, and the people will be astonished how such a thing could have been. A day will come when these two immense groups, the United States of America and the United States of Europe, shall be seen extending the hand of fellowship across the ocean, exchanging their products, their industry, their arts, their genius, clearing the earth, peopling the deserts, improving creation under the eye of the Creator, and uniting for the good of all these two irresistible and infinite powers—the fraternity of men and the power of God."

THE DEACON'S PROPENSITY.

An amusing incident occurred in one of our churches a long time ago. The clergyman gave out the hymn—

"I love to steal awhile away
From every cumbering care,
And spend the hours of setting day
In humble, grateful prayer."

The regular chorister being absent, the duty devolved upon Deacon M., who commenced, "I love to steal," and then broke down. Raising his voice a little higher, he then sung, "I love to steal." As before, he concluded he had got the wrong pitch; and deploring that he had not his "pitch-tuner," he determined to succeed the next time. All the old ladies were tittering behind their fans, while the faces of the "young ones" were in a broad grin. At length, after a desperate cough, he made a final demonstration and roared out, "I love to steal." The effort was too much. Every one but the clergyman was laughing. He arose and said: "Seeing our brother's propensities, let us pray." It is needless to add that but few of the congregation heard the prayer.

A SPLENDID POEM.

TO NEW ENGLAND.

By Helen Marsh Fletcher.

Love to you, dear New England!
To the good old parent stock,
To the stones in every meadow,
That speak of Plymouth Rock;
To the boulders by the way-side
And the pebbles in the rills,
To the church spire in the valleys,
To the farm house on the hills;

To the stern New England conscience,
Her people's best defence,
To her lofty thoughts of duty,
To her sturdy common-sense;
To her gorgeous autumn forests
And her bracing winter day,
To her dandelions and daisies
And the smell of new mown hay;

To the mossy, pine-grown hillside,
Where we rest in summer dreams,
To the shaded bush-locked roadways,
To the placid meadow streams,
To the wooded hills and mountains,
To the singing birds and bees,
To the woodchucks in the pasture
And the squirrels in the trees;

To the sweet New England village,
Like no other place on earth,
To the thoughtful clear-eyed woman,
Her highest mark of worth,
To the brilliant high wrought children,
To the shrewd, sharp business men,
To the ancient March Town Meeting,
To the modern journal's pen.

Love to you, dear New England!
All praise in speech and song
To the little North East corner
That has made her country strong!
To "the planet's thinking center,"
To the nation's head and crown,
To the spirit and traditions
Of the old New England town.

The Vermonter, White River Junction, Vt.

IN YOUR WONDERFUL LITTLE PAPER.

We have seen several beautiful cuts in The Vermonter, published at White River Junction, Vermont, and the other day wrote its editor and publisher, Mr. Charles R. Cummings, that we would be glad to use the sugar-making cut in Our Dumb Animals and received, almost immediately, the cut and a letter in which he said:

"I am glad to get a line from you and accede to your request to print the To New England poem and the sugar-making cut in your wonderful little paper."

This leads us to say that Our Dumb Animals is now so well established that Boston and New York publishers have freely offered us the use of more than a thousand cuts on condition that we simply say where we got them, and we have only to drop a line to editors in any part of the United States, asking the use of some cut we fancy, and receive a reply similar to the above.

One of our most sagacious business men said to us some time since, "If you would only take advertisements your paper would become a perfect bonanza."

But when we started it thirty-seven years ago (as the first of its kind in the world) we determined that it should not be an advertising paper, and for various reasons have been strengthened in that determination ever since.

Always kill fish as soon as they are taken from the water by a sharp blow with a baton or stick on the back of the head. They suffer just as much better, and are in all respects better than those that suffer just before dying. The best fishermen in Europe and America know this. The suffering of any animal just before dying always tends to make the meat unwholesome and sometimes poisonous. GEO. T. ANGELL.

MAKING MAPLE SUGAR.

(From "The Vermonter," White River Junction, Vermont.)

Some time since, a gentleman urged us to publish a small advertisement of his. Our reply was that we should charge him five hundred dollars for a single insertion, and we then should have had to apologize to the public for having published it.

PAREPA ROSA'S EASTER OFFERING IN NEW YORK CITY.

Self-sacrificing devotion in the service of those who need our help is the loftiest element of high breeding. This is illustrated by this anecdote, related by Myra S. Delano, of Parepa Rosa's vocal tribute at the coffin of a poor sewing-girl.

"Myra, this is perfect rest!" exclaimed Parepa. "We shall be quite alone for four hours."

"Yes, four long hours. There will be no rehearsals; nobody else knows where you are."

Parepa laughed merrily at the idea, and well she might. At eleven that day she had sung at one of our large New York churches, and I had insisted upon her going home with me. We were friends in Italy, and so she readily consented. But by noon the sky was overcast and gray. Down came the snow, whitening streets and roofs. The wind swept icy breaths from the water as it came up from the bay and rushed past the city spires and over tall buildings, whirling around us the snow in wild gusts. We hurried home and sat close to the fire for an afternoon's enjoyment.

There was a sharp rap at the door and a note was thrust in. It read:

"My dear friend: Can you come? Annie has gone. She said you would be sure to come to her funeral. She spoke of you to the last. She will be buried at four."

"Oh, dear! I must go," said I, "but you sit by the fire and rest. I'll be back in two hours. And so poor Annie has gone!"

"Tell me about it, Myra," said Parepa, "for I am going with you;" and after I had told the story she threw on her heavy cloak, wound her long white woolen scarf about her throat, drew on her gloves, and we set out together in the wild Easter storm.

The driving snow made us late, and we found the hard-working friends sitting stiffly against the walls.

A minister came, brought as a mere matter of formality by the undertaker. He read a few verses from the Bible, made a brief prayer, and was gone.

The undertaker looked at the great singer and me as if to say, "It's time to go."

Without a word Parepa rose and walked to the head of the coffin. She laid her white scarf on an empty chair, threw her cloak back from her shoulders, where it fell in long, soft, black lines from her noble figure, like the drapery of mourning. She laid her soft, fair hand on the cold forehead, passed it tenderly over the wasted, delicate face, looked down at the dead girl a moment, removed some Easter lilies I had brought, from the stained box to the thin fingers, and with illuminated eyes sang the glorious melody:

"Loving angel, bright and fair,
Take, oh, take her to thy care."

Her voice rose and fell in all its richness and power and beauty and pity. She looked above the dingy room and the tired faces of men and women, the hard hands and the struggling hearts. She threw back her head and sang till the choirs of Paradise must have paused to listen to the Easter music of that day.

She passed her hands caressingly over the girl's soft, dark hair, and sang on—and on:

"Take, oh, take her to thy care."

The mother's face grew rapt and white. Suddenly she threw my hand off and knelt at Parepa's feet, close to the wooden trestles. She locked her fingers together, tears and sobs breaking forth. She prayed aloud that God would bless the angel singing for Annie. I led her back to her seat as the last grand notes of Parepa's voice rose triumphant over all earthly pain and sorrow.

I thought that no queen ever went to her grave with greater ceremony than this young daughter of poverty and toil, committed to the care of angels.

That night thousands listened to Parepa's matchless voice. Applause rose to the skies and her own face was gloriously swept with emotion. I joined in the enthusiasm; but, above the glitter and the shimmering of jewels and dress, and the heavy odors of Easter flowers, the sea of smiling faces, and the murmur of voices above, the sleet on the roof, and the roar of the storm outside, I could hear Parepa's voice singing up to Heaven: "Take, oh, take her to thy care!"

OUR DUMB ANIMALS.

Boston, June, 1906.

ARTICLES for this paper may be sent to GEO. T. ANGELL, President, 19 Milk St.

BACK NUMBERS FOR DISTRIBUTION.

Persons wishing Our Dumb Animals for gratuitous distribution only can send us five cents to pay postage, and receive ten copies, or ten cents and receive twenty copies. We cannot afford larger numbers at this price.

TEACHERS AND CANVASSERS.

Teachers can have Our Dumb Animals one year for twenty-five cents.

Persons wishing to canvass for the paper will please make application to this office.

Our American Humane Education Society sends this paper this month to the editors of over twenty thousand newspapers and magazines.

OUR AMBULANCE

Can be had at any hour of the day or night by calling Telephone 992 Tremont.

Horse owners are expected to pay reasonable charges for its use, but in emergency cases where they are unable to do so the ambulance will be sent at the expense of the Society, but only upon an owner's order, or upon that of a police officer or Society agent.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND REMITTANCES.

We would respectfully ask all persons who send us subscriptions or remittances to examine our report of receipts, which is published in each number of our paper, and if they do not find the sums they have sent properly credited, kindly notify us.

If correspondents fail to get satisfactory answers please write again, and on the envelope put the word "Personal."

My correspondence is now so large that I can read only a small part of the letters received, and seldom long ones. GEO. T. ANGELL.

We are glad to report this month nine hundred and eighteen new branches of our Parent Band of Mercy, making a total of sixty-five thousand one hundred and ninety-four.

NEW BAND OF MERCY BADGES.

There having been a wide call for cheaper Band of Mercy badges, we have succeeded in adding to the kinds we have been using a new badge in the two sizes above represented. They are very handsome—a white star on a blue ground, with gilt letters, and we sell them at bare cost, five for ten cents, in money or postage stamps, or larger numbers at same price. We cannot attend to smaller orders than five.

FOR SUFFERING ANIMALS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

At the May directors' meeting of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the American Humane Education Society, held on the 16th ult., President Angell reported that the prosecuting agents of the Massachusetts Society, in the investigation of complaints during the month, have examined 4,670 animals, taken 189 horses from work, and humanely killed 307 horses and other animals.

The Societies have organized during the month 918 "Bands of Mercy," making a total of 65,194. In addition to which, during the last three months, about 1,000 new branches of our Parent American Band of Mercy have been formed in the public schools of ten of our large western cities, all of which we supply with outfits and literature.

The following vote was unanimously passed by the directors of the Massachusetts Society:

Voted, That we send two hundred dollars to the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to aid in properly caring for the homeless and suffering animals of that city.

MAYOR FITZGERALD.

Mayor Fitzgerald, whom we are glad to have on our list of Vice-Presidents of our Mass. S. P. C. A., is doing splendid work for the protection of our city horses. No horse belonging to the City of Boston will be permitted to suffer any abuse which Mayor Fitzgerald can prevent. GEO. T. ANGELL.

WOMAN'S PENNSYLVANIA S. P. C. TO ANIMALS.

There come to our table very excellent reports by Mrs. Caroline Earle White, President, and others, of the good work done by this very active society during the past year.

OUR PROSECUTING AGENTS.

Our special paid prosecuting agents are:
For Western Massachusetts—Dexter A. Atkins, Springfield, 31 Elm Street, Room 327. Tel. 581-1.
For Central Massachusetts—Robert L. Dyson, Worcester, 3 Stafford Street. Tel. 288-3.
For South-Eastern Massachusetts—Henry A. Perry, Mansfield.

For Boston, Eastern Massachusetts and elsewhere—Charles A. Currier, Special Agent; Thomas Langlan, James R. Hathaway, Charles F. Clark, James Duckering, George W. Splaine, Frank G. Phillips; Emergency Agent, George Albert Grant—all at 19 Milk Street, Boston.

In addition to these we have over four hundred unpaid local agents in all our Massachusetts cities and towns who render us more or less service.

BOARDING PLACES FOR CATS.

The usual requests for information about summer boarding places for pet cats and dogs are becoming frequent. We shall be glad to receive for distribution cards of those who give good care and good accommodations to such boarders.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT CHINA.

In The New Century Path of April 29, we find an article from La Revue, Paris, showing an enormous waking up in China. There is now a minister of education there; public schools, primary, secondary and high, are being established. Public libraries are in the course of establishment. Our chief modern books on theoretical and applied science are being translated, and there is an official department of translators, and lastly the empire is beginning to be flooded with dailies and quarterlies.

It looks as though China, as well as Japan, is to leap suddenly to the front rank of civilization. A great work is being done there for human progress.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

OVERLOADING.

One of the most difficult questions our Humane Societies have to deal with for the protection of horses is that of overloading. Horses, like human beings, are old and young, sick and well, strong and weak; an overload for one horse may not be an overload for another of the same size, and when there is no whipping or kicking, and the horse draws the load, it is about impossible to obtain evidence upon which our courts will convict.

Our Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty would be very glad to pay five hundred dollars to anybody who will suggest, and enable us to enact, a law which would prevent overloading, but thus far we have been unable to find any better law than that which I wrote thirty-seven years ago.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

WHY DON'T YOU WHIP HIM?

The following incident occurred on the rise of land near Park Street Church (Boston) some time ago. A horse, evidently laboring under the impression that he was overloaded, stopped and refused to go any farther, and a crowd gathered. Just then one voice called out from the crowd:

"Why don't you whip him?"

"Whip him," said the driver, "Whip him! How do I know that there ain't an agent of that darned old society standin' right here in this crowd?"

We have never considered it good policy to send out any of our agents in uniform, and so any respectable citizen who seems to be interested in the protection of horses is liable to be suspected of being one of our agents, although each agent wears under his coat collar a badge which, when needed, settles the question very quickly. GEO. T. ANGELL.

OUR NAVY.

In our morning papers of May 6, we saw that the great battleship "Rhode Island," costing millions of dollars, on her first trip ran ashore in perfectly clear weather on a sand bank in Chesapeake bay.

Only a few weeks since three of these great U. S. men-of-war, on a perfectly clear Sunday, were run on a mud bank in steaming out of New York harbor.

We do not object to our naval officers making life very gay at Newport and Bar Harbor, but the great battleships, which are intended to guard our cities, are altogether too costly to be run on mud banks and sand banks. We have always thought that if the commander of the "Maine" had paid proper heed to the warning given him at the Sunday bull-fight he and his officers attended at Havana the day before his ship was blown up, and taken proper precautions for protection, he would have saved his ship and the lives of hundreds of his men. We thought he ought to have been dismissed from the navy for his fatal carelessness, but instead he was made an admiral, whether because he helped to get us into the Cuban and Philippine wars we do not know. GEO. T. ANGELL.

WHAT PRESIDENT ELIOT OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY HAS RECENTLY SAID AT TUSKEGEE.

"The Government which can afford to spend eight millions of dollars on one battleship and to build a fleet of these short-lived monsters, and whose annual expenditure is more than a thousand millions of dollars, ought to be able and eager to help the southern states to lift up, not only the black race, on which it forced a sudden liberty, but the white race, too, which had long suffered deeply from the evils of African slavery."

To which the Advocate of Peace adds, "A single one of the short-lived monsters at eight millions (the last projected is to cost ten millions) would build and endow four Tuskegees and the Tuskegees would not be old junk at the end of a dozen years."

(For Our Dumb Animals.)
IN MEMORY OF "DON."

Our Don—only a dog!
Yes, only a dog, you say;
With a large, warm heart,
And a bright, brown eye,
With an earnest bark
And a warm caress

For you and me and
The friends he loved best.
Oh, how we shall
Miss him, you and I,
His noisy welcome and
Rough good-by!

Some time, some where,
Some day, I trust,
We shall meet again;
Oh, yes, we must!
And the joy of that meeting
I dare not say.

Ay, mock, ye skeptics,
And laugh to scorn
The faith I hold
Of all life that's born;
It cannot be wasted,
Nor can it be lost.

And oh, for the faith,
And the Indian's trust,
That Don and his mistress
Will meet some day—
Just over the river
Not far away!

THINKS HE IS IN HEAVEN.

Dear Mr. Angell:—

A young lady driving near the city observed a forlorn horse in a cab. Approaching, she spoke with the driver and bought the horse. He is now in her stable and no doubt thinks he is in heaven. M.

"BLACK BEAUTY" IN JAPAN.

On May 14 we receive an interesting letter from Tokio, Japan, that "Black Beauty" is being adopted in some of the schools as a good book for the study of the English language. Our American Humane Education Society has already carried this book up to a circulation of over three millions copies, and we prophesy that its circulation has only just begun. We have in to-day's mail a remittance for thirty-six hundred copies to be used in the public schools of Cleveland.

HE REPENTED.

A story comes from New Haven about a black spaniel that abstracted a feather duster from his owner's house, and while playing with it tore out all the feathers. The dog, after being shown the featherless handle, was given a whipping. He then disappeared and about an hour afterward walked bravely into the house with a brand new duster in his mouth. He walked up to his mistress and meekly deposited the new brush at her feet. By the mark on it she saw that the dog had stolen it from a neighboring store.

The above story reminds us of a large Newfoundland dog belonging to Mrs. ex-Mayor Richardson of Lowell. She took him one day to a photographer's to be photographed, but, time after time, as soon as the camera was about ready to take him he would get out of position. Mrs. Richardson gave him a severe scolding and sent him home. The next day to her surprise he came home with a package tied round his neck, which on opening she found to be his picture; she immediately went down to the photographer, who told her that hearing something pushing on his door he opened it, and the dog walked in and went immediately to the spot where he would not stay the day before and remained there in perfect quiet until his picture was taken.

THE SUFFERINGS OF ANIMALS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

In the Chicago Record-Herald of May 6th we find a very touching description of the suffering of animals in the San Francisco fires, from which we take the following:—

"For days it was a common sight to see these bewildered dogs, hungry and neglected, remaining close to some pile of ruins looking up to beg whiningly for comfort as some passer-by approached. Nearly all remained at their posts without food or drink until privation or soldiers' bullets ended their lives.

"Large numbers of cats also perished. Canaries and parrots fared better. Many women could be seen during the first few days carrying nothing but cages with frightened canaries.

"The sparrows fared not so well. As the fires advanced, a perfect shower of singed and gasping sparrows fell to die amidst the flames or in the streets. One may go to-day for miles in the midst of the ruins without hearing a single chirrup.

"There was great excitement among the animals of Golden Gate Park. Deer bounded about, seeking some place where the earth would not shake them. Buffaloes charged on the fences which confined them and the bears sought to beat down the bars.

"It was three days before it occurred to any one that the grizzlies were so fiercely restless because they had not been fed. But relief was furnished for the hungry animals as well as for the human beings, and to-day the deer are herding quietly, the grizzlies lie in comfort and the ugly brown buffaloes crouched in their enclosure are chewing their cuds in peace."

Passing our Gifford fountain this morning we found fourteen work-horses drinking and waiting to drink.

THE ANIMALS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Editor Union:—Does it not seem strange that, amid all the news regarding the catastrophe at San Francisco, nothing has been said of the sufferings and fate of the animals there? It is, of course, but natural for human beings in distress to occupy the field of attention; still more is this to be expected in such an unusual calamity, which is being borne so grandly by its victims and relieved so nobly by the public. But has no friend of the dumb and helpless sub-human thought of those brothers of ours perishing by hundreds, and thousands perhaps, unnoticed and unthought of? Has no eye moistened at the mental sight of those wretched creatures—the cats and dogs—without man's mind and will to sustain them, distracted in that inferno, and now wandering homeless and starving, or hunted and destroyed as so much "vermin" because wild with suffering, as insane human beings were treated once by people calling themselves civilized? And those patient slaves, the horses, dragging heavy loads and pulling fire-engines in smoke and flame, deprived of food and water, perishing by hundreds and consumed into oblivion; has no one thought of them? Man has there done well—and gets his reward; but the lash will crack hereafter just as freely over the backs of the "beast" as if his kind had not been silent martyrs that man might live.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in San Francisco has probably suffered serious loss—how much I do not know; at least its power must at present be much handicapped. Would it not be a suitable and appropriate thing for similar societies and individuals everywhere to contribute assistance, so that it may be placed on a footing to meet the extraordinary demands which will now, in the building of a new city, be made upon it?

Sympathy of human for human is a gracious quality, but in the exercise of a broader justice man knows that pain is pain, whoever feels it, and has a thought, a word, a hand for the despised beings of a nether world.

J. M. GREENE.

1250 Tenth St., San Diego.

San Diego Union:

May 1, 1906.

In compliance with the suggestion, we recommended, and our directors unanimously voted, to send the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals two hundred dollars to aid in carrying on its merciful work.

LETTER TO THE SAN FRANCISCO SOCIETY P. C. A.

THE FOLLOWING LETTER STARTED FOR SAN FRANCISCO MAY 16.

To the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals:

While it is a pleasure to us to kindly remember the sufferings of our own kindred and race in San Francisco, we do not forget God's other creatures that depend on our mercy, and I take pleasure in saying that at the May directors' meeting of our Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, held this morning, it was unanimously voted to send $200 to your San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to aid in properly caring for the homeless and suffering animals in your city.

Please kindly inform me to whom the money shall be sent, and oblige, with kindest wishes.

Yours sincerely,

GEO. T. ANGELL.

EARTHQUAKES AND THEIR CAUSES.

We find the following in George's Weekly of Denver, Colorado, April 26, issue:

"A few days ago one of the daily papers contained an expression from a number of noted scientists relative to the catastrophe at San Francisco.

It is most satisfactory for the world to have some great men who know things. There is where the compensation comes in for the money expended on our colleges and universities.

Read what these scientific gentlemen say through the columns of the paper:

Professor Howe, Denver University: 'Earth is cooling, and shrinkage of interior causes cracking of exterior.'

Professor Milne of London: 'An upheaval in the interior of earth.'

Professor Davidson, University of California: 'Direction of the disturbances ran from north to south.'

Professor Goode, Chicago University: 'Due to the Rocky mountains, which are gradually rising.'

Professor Van Hise, University of Wisconsin: 'San Francisco is dangerously located and will always be subject to severe shocks.'

Professor Holland, Carnegie Institute: 'Trouble is due to Mount Tacoma.'

Professor Pearson, Yale: 'All California may be shattered by an earthquake at any time.'

Professor Wright, Yale: 'Caused by earthquakes now going on in Japan and Formosa.'

Professor Totten, former Yale prophet: 'The whole universe is wound up for disaster.'

'These professors ought to have held a convention before they delivered themselves of their wisdom to the world, as the average, plodding citizen, seeking information, is naturally somewhat rattled after reading what they have to say. It appears to be a case of paying your money and taking your choice.'

Our own Professor Howe says the shrinkage of the interior caused a cracking of the exterior. It follows, therefore, that an expansion of the interior would mean a shrinkage of the exterior, or in other words the more you inflate a balloon the smaller it grows. The experience of the small boy with a bladder contradicts this theory, but the professor is entitled to his opinion."

We wish that George's Weekly had given us the photographs of these distinguished scientists. Perhaps Life (New York) might supply them.

Clearly, what they don't know isn't worth knowing. We think that all of them are entitled to receive from their respective colleges and universities the degree of F. D., which, being interpreted, means Flying Dutchman.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

THE CALIFORNIA EARTHQUAKE.

A great war like that in Manchuria is tenfold more appalling in destruction of property, loss of life and the ruin of homes, than any earthquake that has ever rent the earth and swallowed up men and cities. The demonstration of the moral and practical power of living united, universal, co-operative human interest and sympathy exhibited in the swift relief of San Francisco, leaves no longer any excuse for war. It can be banished the moment men wish it to be, and this magnificent exhibition of the growing spirit of unity and mutual service among men leads us to believe that at no distant day it will rise to a still greater and more glorious accomplishment and rid the world of its oldest and most shameful evil.—Advocate of Peace.

(From the Boston Pilot, May 12, 1906.)

ST. FRANCIS AT SAN FRANCISCO.

I met old, lean St. Francis in a dream
Wading knee-deep through the ashes of his town.
The souls that he was helping up to heaven
Were burnt or wrung out of the writhing flesh.
Said I, "When near a thousand are engulfed
In sudden indiscriminate destruction,
And half a million homeless are, I know
This rotten world most blackly is accurst."

"When heroes are as countless as the flames;
When sympathy," said he, "has opened wide
A hundred million generous human hearts,
I know this world is infinitely blessed."

RODMAN GILDER.

ONE TOUCH OF NATURE.

Down the street came a wagon, loaded with meat and drawn by a well-rounded, well-fed little mare. Her steps became slower and slower, and finally, in the middle of the car tracks, she stopped.

"Git ap," said the driver, "git ap, Jenny!" But Jenny only turned appealing eyes toward the man on the seat.

Behind him came the shouts and oaths of other drivers.

"Poor Jenny, poor little horse!" said the big, dirty man. "Is she all tired out?"

At the sound of his voice the little horse sighed a sigh of tired appreciation.

"Never mind," he went on soothingly, as he scrambled down off the seat and took her by the bridle. "We'll go right out to the side here and rest a bit," and he led her away from the crowd and stood patting her well-curried sides, while she rubbed her nose against his face.

The other drivers moved on, then turned and looked. Some of them smiled; others replaced the whips which had been taken from their sockets to hurry their own horses after the delay.—New York Times.

GRANT'S HUMANITY.

[From "Campaigning with Grant," in The Century.]

"Rawlins rode with the General at the head of the staff. As the party turned a bend in the road, near the crossing of the Totopotomoy, the General came in sight of a teamster whose wagon was stalled in a place where it was somewhat swampy, and who was standing beside his team, beating his horses brutally in the face with the butt-end of his whip, and swearing with a volubility calculated to give a sulphurous odor to all the surrounding atmosphere. Grant's aversion to profanity and his love of horses caused all the ire in his nature to be aroused by the sight presented. Calling to an officer of the escort, he said, 'Take this man in charge, and have him tied up to a tree for six hours, as a punishment for his brutality.' He loved a horse, so much so as to avoid race courses, which he never attended when it could be avoided, because of the cruelty to the horses."

How we do wish that the men who mutilate their polo ponies and other horses for life, and attend and support these gambling horse races, had more of the spirit of Abraham Lincoln and General Grant.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

WHAT A GODSEND IT WOULD BE.

If instead of butchering and cutting up cats in our public schools the children could only be taught about the lead pipe poisons and other lead poisons, tin can poisons, arsenic poisons, adulterated and unwholesome foods and drinks, the danger of illuminating and coal gas, the importance of pure air and sunlight and proper exercise, and how prevention is a thousand times more important than cure, what a godsend it would be to the coming generations.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

DANGEROUS ADULTERATIONS.

Dr. Shepard, State Chemist of South Dakota, publishes the following among other articles liable to be dangerously adulterated:

Sausage, containing coal tar dye and borax.
Bakers' bread, containing alum.
Butter, containing coal tar dye.
Canned cherries, containing coal tar dye and salicylic acid.
Pancakes, containing alum.
Syrup, containing sodium sulphite.
Tomato soup, containing coal tar dye and benzoic acid.
Cabbage and corned beef, containing saltpeter.
Corn scallops, containing sulphurous acid and formaldehyde.
Canned peas, salicylic acid.
Catsup, coal tar dye and benzoic acid.
Vinegar, coal tar dye.
Bread and butter, alum and coal tar dye.
Mince pie, boracic acid.
Pickles, coppers, sodium sulphite and salicylic acid.
Lemon ice cream, methyl alcohol.
Bakers' bread and butter, containing alum and coal tar dye.
Canned beef, containing borax.
Canned peaches, sodium sulphite, coal tar dye and salicylic acid.
Pickles, coppers, sodium sulphite and formaldehyde.
Catsup, coal tar dye and benzoic acid.
Lemon cake, alum.
Baked pork and beans, formaldehyde.
Vinegar, coal tar dye.
Currant jelly, coal tar dye and salicylic acid.
Cheese, coal tar dye.

What is the remedy? As we have said many times before in these columns, the only effective remedy is in the forming of Public Health Associations, supported by charitable contributions, (as our Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals are) entirely independent of politics and the power of rich adulterators, which shall be constantly investigating, analyzing and exposing, and calling upon the proper officers to enforce the laws.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

HOW TO GET RID OF FLIES AND MOSQUITOES.

An entomologist in the Hartford (Conn.) Times says that the persistent use of oil of lavender will drive flies out of a house, and an application to face and hands at night before retiring will, no matter how many mosquitoes there may be in the bed-chamber, drive them from the sleeper. [Buy five cents' worth of oil of lavender, mix it with the same amount of water, and use a small atomizer to spray it.]

SLEEPLESSNESS.

A Swedish servant-maid, finding that her mistress was troubled with sleeplessness, told her of a practice of the people of her country who were similarly afflicted; It was to take a napkin, dip it in ice-cold water, wring it slightly and lay it across her eyes. The plan was followed and it worked like a charm. The first night the lady slept four hours without awaking—something she had not done for several months. At the end of that time the napkin had become dry. By wetting it again she at once went to sleep, and it required considerable force to arouse her in the morning.—Exchange.

ANGELL PRIZE CONTESTS.

A splendid way to raise money in schools, churches, Sunday-schools, or elsewhere for any object preferred.

ANGELL PRIZE CONTESTS IN HUMANE SPEAKING.

We have beautiful sterling silver medals, of which this cut shows the size and face inscriptions.

On the back is inscribed, "The American Humane Education Society."

We sell them at one dollar each, which is just what we pay for them by the hundred.

Each is in a box on purple velvet, and we make no charge for postage when sent by mail.

The plan is this: Some large church or public hall is secured, several schools, Sunday-schools, granges or other societies are invited to send their best speaker or reciter to compete for the prize medal; some prominent citizen presides; other prominent citizens act as the committee of award, and a small admission fee, ten or twenty cents, pays all the costs, and leaves a handsome balance for the local humane society or "Band of Mercy," or school or Sunday-school or church or library or any other object preferred.

"BLESSED ARE THE MERCIFUL."

We have in our principal office [in a large frame and conspicuous position] the names of those who have kindly remembered our two Societies in their wills.

When we get a building we intend to have them so engraved in it as to last through the centuries.

PRIZES $650.

In behalf of The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals I do hereby offer (1) $100 for evidence which shall enable the Society to convict any man in Massachusetts of cruelty in the practice of vivisection.

(2) $25 for evidence to convict of violating the recently-enacted law of Massachusetts against vivisections and dissections in our public schools.

(3) $100 for evidence to convict any member of the Myopia, Hingham, Dedham, Harvard or Country Clubs, of a criminal violation of law by causing his horse to be mutilated for life.

(4) $25 for evidence to convict anyone in Massachusetts of a violation of law by causing any horse to be mutilated for life by docking.

(5) Twenty prizes of $10 each, and forty prizes of $5 each, for evidence to convict of violating the laws of Massachusetts by killing any insect-eating bird or taking eggs from its nest.

GEO. T. ANGELL, President.

OUR CREED and the creed of our "American Humane Education Society," as appears on its battle-flags—its badges—and its official seal, is "GLORY TO GOD," "PEACE ON EARTH," "KINDNESS, JUSTICE AND MERCY TO EVERY LIVING CREATURE."

If there were no birds man could not live on the earth.

OUR PRIZE STORY PRICES.

Black Beauty, in paper covers, 6 cents at office, or 10 cents mailed; cloth bound, 25 cents each at office, or 30 cents mailed.

Hollyhurst, Strike at Shane's, Four Months in New Hampshire, also Mr. Angell's Autobiography, in paper covers, 6 cents each at office, or 10 cents mailed; cloth bound, 20 cents each at office, or 25 cents mailed.

Some of New York's "400," in paper covers, 10 cents each; cloth bound, 25 cents, or 30 cents mailed.

For Pity's Sake, in paper covers, 10 cents mailed; cloth bound, 60 cents at office, or 70 cents mailed.

Beautiful Joe at publishers' price, 50 cents at office, or 62 cents mailed. Cheaper edition, 25 cents; mailed, 30 cents. Both editions cloth bound.

Postage stamps are acceptable for all remittances.

Canon Rowsley, on Saint Martin's, after describing good Saint Martin, added:

"Some of you, my friends, followers of the gentle Christ, come to worship, nay, come to the Supper of our Lord, wearing 'egret' plumes or 'ospreys' in your hats and bonnets. Do you realize that this 'egret' plume grows on the bird's back only at the time of nesting, and that to obtain one such feather involves the cruel death not only of the beautiful white mother heron, but of the whole nestful of its nearly-fledged offspring? What a price to pay for the pleasure of an egret plume! What a travesty of religion to be able to come into church decked with an egret feather and sing in the words of the Benedicite: 'O all ye fowls of the air, bless ye the Lord! praise Him and magnify Him forever!' What a mockery to kneel at Holy Communion, take the soldier's oath of allegiance unto the Lord—that gentle Lord of all compassion and mercy, that Lord who said 'Consider the fowls of the air!' who told us that not a sparrow falls to the earth unregarded by their Heavenly Father!"

"The Humane Horse Book," compiled by George T. Angell, is a work which should be read by every man, woman and child in the country. Price, 5 cents.—Boston Courier.

Nations, like individuals, are powerful in the degree that they command the sympathies of their neighbors.

In hiring a herdic, coupe, or other carriage never forget to look at the horses and hire those that look the best and have no docked tails. When we take a herdic we pick out one drawn by a good horse, tell the driver not to hurry, but take it easy, and give him five or ten cents over his fare for being kind to his horse. We never ride behind a dock-tailed horse.

Send for prize essays published by Our American Humane Education Society on the best plan of settling the difficulties between capital and labor, and receive a copy without charge.

Always kill a wounded bird or other animal as soon as you can. All suffering of any creature, just before it dies, poisons the meat.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

Every kind word you say to a dumb animal or bird will make you happier.

SONGS OF HAPPY LIFE, &c.

For prices of Miss S. J. Eddy's new book, above named, and a variety of humane publications, address, "Humane Education Committee, No. 61 Westminster Street, Providence, R. I."

ONE THING WE MUST NEVER FORGET, NAMELY: THAT THE INFINITELY MOST IMPORTANT WORK FOR US IS THE HUMANE EDUCATION OF THE MILLIONS WHO ARE SOON TO COME ON THE STAGE OF ACTION. GEO. T. ANGELL.

What do you consider, Mr. Angell, THE MOST IMPORTANT WORK you do?

ANSWER. Talking each month to the editors of every newspaper and magazine in North America north of Mexico, who in their turn talk to probably OVER SIXTY MILLIONS of readers.

"Just so soon and so far as we pour into all our schools the songs, poems and literature of mercy towards these lower creatures, JUST SO SOON AND SO FAR SHALL WE REACH THE ROOTS NOT ONLY OF CRUELTY BUT OF CRIME."

GEO. T. ANGELL.

Refuse to ride in any cab, herdic or carriage drawn by a docked horse, and tell the driver why.

FOR FREE DISTRIBUTION.

To those who will have them properly posted we send:

- (1.) Placards for the protection of birds under our Massachusetts laws.
- (2.) Placards for the protection of horses everywhere from docking and tight check-reins.

WHAT A DOCKED HORSE TELLS.

- (1.) That the owner does not care one straw for the suffering of dumb animals.
- (2.) That the owner does not care one straw for the good opinion of nine-tenths of his fellow-citizens who witness the effects of his cruelty.

Every unkind treatment to the cow poisons the milk—even talking unkindly to her.

Is it cruel to keep a horse locked up in a stable without exercise?

Answer: Just as cruel as it would be to keep a boy, or girl, or man, or woman in the same condition.

If to this is added solitary confinement without the company of other animals, then the cruelty is still greater.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

- (1.) Avoid as far as possible drinking any water which has been contaminated by lead pipes or lead-lined tanks.
- (2.) Avoid drinking water which has been run through galvanized iron pipes.
- (3.) Avoid using anything acid which has been kept in a tin can.
- (4.) When grippe or other epidemics are prevailing wear a little crude sulphur in your boots or shoes.

VIEW OF THE CITY OF BOSTON IN 1849.

ITS COMMON AND PUBLIC GARDEN.

JOHN B. MORAN,

District Attorney of Suffolk County.

The action of our Boston (Suffolk County) District Attorney in summoning (by subpoena served on every member) both House and Senate to appear before the grand jury of Suffolk County, to be examined in regard to alleged charges of bribery and graft at our State House, is probably one of the most remarkable acts ever undertaken by a prosecuting officer in our country, and perhaps in the world.

It brings to mind an incident that will be found on page 49 of our Autobiographical Recollections.

In February the Boston & Maine Railroad Company proposed to reduce the pay of their engineers, which was already quite low enough. It resulted in a strike; this resulted in a proposition to enact by the legislature, then in session, a law against the locomotive engineers, of most unwarranted severity. A committee of the engineers came to me, asking help. I sent them to Wendell Phillips, but then began to think what I could do to help them at the hearing before the joint railroad committee of Senate and House next morning. I knew it was the custom of railroads to furnish free tickets and passes to all members of the legislature. There was no question but the pockets of all these gentlemen on the railroad committee were well filled,—in other words, they were in the pay of the railroads, and yet were to decide between the railroads and their engineers. I thought I saw a good point: so in the morning I went to the committee-room, which was packed with perhaps from one to two hundred railroad officers and engineers. I told the chairman of the railroad commissioners, who was to present the obnoxious bill, that I had a very short Act, which would not occupy over five minutes, which I would like to submit to the committee before the longer one prepared by him, and that I should be greatly obliged if he would waive his right to priority, and permit me to present my short bill and then retire. To this he cheerfully assented, and, when called upon by the chairman of the committee, stated that he had arranged with me to present my bill first.

I rose, and read my bill, which was as follows:

1. Be it enacted, that any locomotive engineer who shall voluntarily, without just cause, abandon his engine on any railroad of this Commonwealth except at the end of his route, shall be punished by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding one year.

I looked at the committee as they sat around the long table. There was no objection to that.

2. That any railroad corporation which shall hereafter directly, or indirectly, give to any person elected a member of the Legislature of Massachusetts a free ticket to pass over any railroad in this Commonwealth, or shall knowingly transport any such member without pay, or attempt in any manner to bribe any member of the Massachusetts Legislature, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, and not less than five hundred dollars, for every such offence.

3. That any member of the Massachusetts Legislature who shall during his term of office receive or use any free ticket or other gift of any railroad corporation doing business in this state, shall be thereby rendered incompetent to vote upon any matter relating to the railroads of this Commonwealth.

I looked at the committee again, and they looked at each other. I said, "Mr. Chairman, I do not propose to argue this matter. I simply leave this bill in your hands." I walked to the head of the table, handed him the bill, and immediately left the room. The newspapers got hold of it, and the severe legislation proposed did not pass.

COLONIZATION.

I felt much sympathy with these engineers, thrown out of employment for objecting to the cutting-down of their pay, and wrote the president of the Association of Locomotive Engineers, suggesting that in some most desirable spot where land was cheap the association should purchase a large tract at low price and settle upon it all deserving engineers who from any cause should wish to retire, or be thrown out of employment. Excellent lands could be bought for two or three dollars an acre, which, with the settlement of a respectable colony, would soon be worth twenty, thirty, or forty dollars per acre.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

NANSEN, THE ARCTIC EXPLORER'S CARRIER PIGEON.

One day a carrier pigeon tapped at the window of Mrs. Nansen's home at Christiana. Instantly the window was opened, and the wife of the famous arctic explorer in another moment covered a little messenger with kisses and caresses.

The carrier pigeon had been away from the cottage thirty long months, but had not forgotten the way home. It brought a note from Nansen, stating that all was going well with his expedition in the polar regions.

Nansen had fastened a message to the bird and turned it loose.

The frail courier darted out into the blizzardly air, flew like an arrow over perhaps a thousand miles of frozen waste, and then over another thousand miles of ocean and plains and forests, to enter the window of its waiting mistress and deliver the message which she had been awaiting so anxiously.

We boast of human pluck, sagacity and endurance, but this loving carrier pigeon, after an absence of thirty months, accomplished a feat so wonderful that we can only give ourselves up to amazement and admiration.

From Nansen's Arctic Explorations.

RIGHT TO THE POINT.

A kind-hearted lady who has been posting our bird placards herself, personally, in a town near Boston, when she posted the first one attracted the attention of quite a little crowd of boys who were practicing with bows and arrows. They inquired of her what it meant about offering prizes of $5 and $10 for evidence to convict any one of killing birds or taking eggs from their nests.

She told them that if she could find out anybody that did it, the Society would give her $5 or $10, and Mr. Angell would give those who had been doing it something they didn't want. After a little talk the boys concluded that they wouldn't try to shoot any more birds.

WHAT THE REV. DR. LORIMER ONCE SAID TO AN AUDIENCE OF NEARLY 3,000 AT THE BOSTON TREMONT TEMPLE.

"How I have been pained in reading comments in the papers lately about the slaughter of birds. Is it not an awful comment on the loving kindness of Christian hearts that the woods are robbed of their songsters that our girls may have a little extra decoration on their hats? Is it not a sad comment that we should convert our world into a songless world, that the white plume of the heron, the darker plumage of the dove, the bright feathers of our sweetest singers, or the plumes of some bird taken from it at nesting time, when you, by its destruction, kill its offspring, may deck you, my daughters and sisters, in a little added finery? Every Christian woman ought to register a sacred vow that she will have nothing to do with this wholesale slaughter of these sweet 'creatures of the air.'"

THE CAT IN ANCIENT TIMES.

The cat was very highly regarded in England at one time, both as a rat and mouse catcher, and as an ornament to society.

The ancient Egyptians treated cats with great distinction. It was a crime to kill them. The most prominent cats were upon death embalmed in drugs and spices, and cat mummies have been found side by side with those of kings. When Cambyses, the Persian, attacked the Egyptian city of Pelusis, he cunningly provided his soldiers with cats instead of shields. When the host advanced, the Egyptians retired in confusion upon discovering that they would be unable to do damage to their enemy without seriously imperiling the lives of vast numbers of cats. And so the city was taken easily. It cannot be disputed that the ancient Egyptian cats must have enjoyed life very much.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A FRIENDLY WALTZ.

Danced by a Young Lady Kitten and Her Canine Admirer.

Dogs are usually regarded as the bitterest enemies of cats, but a famous German animal trainer has recently introduced some clever tricks in which both cats and dogs play a part.

In one of the acts Miss Mimisse, the cat, goes to a ball and takes her place in a chair, as becomes a modest young lady kitten. In comes Mr. Follette, the dog, and with many bows and smiles invites her to dance a polka. Miss Mimisse bows bashfully and takes Mr. Follette's arms and they dance off together across the stage on their hind legs. Of course everyone cheers.—Chicago Record.

(From the New York Times.)

A family living in Vermont removed from their long-time residence to another village, some forty miles away. They took with them a Scotch collie of unusual intelligence, but left behind the family cat. The collie and the cat had been warm friends for several years, and had fought each other's battles with courage and impartiality.

After the family reached their new home the collie was evidently lonesome. One evening as the family were gathered about the open fire some remarks were made about this, and the man of the house, patting the collie on the head, said: "I am sorry that we did not bring George with us. You miss your old playmate, don't you?" The next morning the collie had disappeared. Three days afterward he came into the yard in a state of great enjoyment, indicated in the usual dog way, followed by George, the cat. Both seemed somewhat excited, and the collie showed marks of battle. Each seemed greatly delighted in the company of the other, and the old-time status quo was at once resumed.

Out of curiosity inquiry was made by the family, both at their old residence and along the line of the main highway between the two places, which developed the fact that the dog appeared at the old home, and very deliberately and very distinctly induced the cat to start on the journey with him.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

We are glad to see evidences of humanity in the German Emperor. For instance, he has recently sent out the following directions:

"Don't expose your horses to drafts, nor allow broken windows in your stable, nor keep them too warm. Never cover them with blankets in the stable, exercise them daily, don't feed wet fodder, but give dry fodder and fresh water. Prevent ammonia gases. When the roads are covered with ice use spiked shoes."

He has also abolished the use of check-reins of all horses kept in the royal stables.

Now, we would like to have him add to these directions the following which President Roosevelt has said, "The most objectionable of all game destroyers is the kind of game butcher who kills simply for the record of slaughter."

BIG PENALTY FOR MOTORISTS.

Berlin, April 28—The Government has introduced in the Reichstag (German Parliament) to-day a project for a law obliging automobilists to pay life annuities to those dependent on persons killed by their motor cars or to persons permanently injured by such accidents, amounts to be assessed by the courts and the owners of the machines, and not the chauffeurs to be responsible. The measure was referred to a committee.—Boston Evening Transcript, April 28, 1906.

PAINTING A FROG'S PORTRAIT.

One of my pets was a frog about half grown. He would hop upon my hand to the tip of my finger, and sing (or croak) as long as I chose to hold him. I was an invalid just then, and when I felt lonely and my husband was away I used to give a little croak to invite the frog to a duet, and he would set off as if his life depended on his song, no matter what the hour might be.

One day I wanted to paint him in a picture, and tried to take a profile view. But he would not let me do it; whenever I placed him in the right position he would hop around so as to face me, and then go on my paper. Then I bethought myself of putting him in a plate with some water, so that he might be comfortable. This plan answered very well, but when I turned the plate around so as to get a side view he hobbled around also, and would face me. Then I tried edging round the table myself, but with the same result, so that I was obliged to hold him sideways while I drew him. But whenever I raised my head to look at him he raised his, too, and lowered it again when I began to paint, and so we went on nodding at each other like two Chinese mandarins.

IN THE HEART OF THE WOODS.

Such beautiful things in the heart of the woods!
Flowers and ferns, and the soft green moss!
Such love of the birds, in the solitudes
Where the swift wings glance and the tree-tops toss;
Spaces of silence, swept with song
Which nobody hears but the God above;
Spaces where myriad creatures throng,
Sunning themselves in his guarding love.

Such safety and peace in the heart of the woods,
Far from the city's dust and din,
Where passion nor hate nor man intrude,
Nor fashion nor folly has entered in.
Deeper than the hunter's trail hath gone,
Glimmers the tarn where the wild deer drink;
And fearless and free comes the gentle fawn
To look at herself o'er the grassy brink.

MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

FOR THE CLERGY AND SOME OTHERS.

We well remember the story about the young clergyman who had determined to resign his pulpit because he was so tormented by "Old Deacon Jones" but after being advised by an aged and experienced brother that he would find Old Deacon Jones in every church, he concluded to remain.

To all clergymen we commend the following little poem:

PEOPLE WILL TALK.

You may get through the world, but 'twill be very slow,
If you listen to all that is said as you go;
You'll be worried and fretted, and kept in a stew—

For meddlesome tongues must have something to do— And people will talk.

If quiet and modest, you'll have it presumed
That your humble position is only assumed—
You're a wolf in sheep's clothing, or else you're a fool,

But don't get excited—keep perfectly cool—
For people will talk.

And then, if you show the least boldness of heart,

Or a slight inclination to take your own part,
They will call you an upstart, conceited and vain,

But keep straight ahead—don't stop to explain—
For people will talk.

If threadbare your dress, or old-fashioned your hat,

Some one will surely take notice of that,
And hint rather strong that you can't pay your way.

But don't get excited, whatever they say—
For people will talk.

If you dress in the fashion don't think to escape,

For they criticise then in a different shape:
You're ahead of your means, or your tailor's unpaid,

But mind your own business—there's naught to be made—

For people will talk.

Now, the best way to do is to do as you please;
For your mind, if you have one, will then be at ease.

Of course you will meet with all sorts of abuse;
But don't think to stop them—it ain't any use—
For people will talk.

WHAT IS THE OBJECT OF THE BANDS OF MERCY?

I answer: To teach and lead every child and older person to seize every opportunity to say a kind word or do a kind act that will make some other human being or some dumb creature happier.

TO THE LITTLE PEOPLE
OF "OUR DUMB ANIMALS."

Dear little people I love so well,
Wherever your place may be;
There's a beautiful secret I long to tell,
So come and listen to me.

When I was a child, in a little town,
Oh, ever so far away,
A beautiful spirit came floating down,
And whispered to me one day:

"There's a secret," the beautiful spirit said,
"That even a child may know,
And they who know it are gladly led
Wherever their feet may go.

"So sweet and simple the secret is,
Yet people are slow to learn,
And away from the pathway that leads to bliss
Their lingering faces turn.

"So the little children must show them how
The happier way to choose,
For the hearts that are tender and loving now
Will never the lesson lose.

"And this is the wonderful secret: Live
For nothing but love each day—
Not for love to keep, but for love to give—
Forever to give away.

"There is no life upon earth so poor,
But love it may give full well,
And the joy of giving is deep and sure,
And richer than tongue can tell.

"To sweeten life as we meet and part,
We need but remember this:
To carry always a tender heart
For the tiniest thing that is.

"The wider the circle of love we make,
The happier life we live,
And the more we give for another's sake,
The more we shall have to give.

"So let us widen it day by day,
By loving a little more,
Till nothing living be shut away
From a share in the heavenly store.

"OUR DUMB ANIMALS."

We believe no other paper in the world goes, as "Our Dumb Animals" does every month, to the editorial rooms of every newspaper and magazine in America north of Mexico, and we believe that no paper in the world is more seldom thrown into the waste-basket unread.

IT GOES EACH MONTH TO

All members of our two Humane Societies. Several thousands of business firms and men. All Massachusetts clergy, Protestant and Roman Catholic. All Massachusetts lawyers, physicians, bank presidents and cashiers, postmasters, school superintendents, large numbers of writers, speakers and teachers through the State. About 500 of the Society's agents in almost every Massachusetts city and town.

"Bands of Mercy" through the State. Many subscribers and others through the State. The Boston police. The Massachusetts legislature. Hundreds of coachmen, drivers and teamsters. The editors of all Massachusetts newspapers and other publications. Many newspaper reporters.

All our Humane Societies throughout the entire world. Large numbers of subscribers in our own and foreign countries. Thousands of our Bands of Mercy in our own and other countries. Members of our National Congress. Presidents of all American Colleges and Universities north of Mexico. Writers, speakers, teachers, and many others in various States and Territories. The editors of over twenty thousand American publications, including all in our own country and British America.

Of these over twenty thousand we have good reasons for believing that not less than nineteen thousand, and perhaps more, are read either by editors or by their wives and children.
